GERMANS PREPARING FOR FRESH ASSAULT ON ALLIES' LINES

Bulgaria Gets Loan of Thirty Million Dollars From German Bankers

Servians Arrested After Attempt to Destroy Bulgarian Ammunition Depot

Berlin, Feb. 11.—The Germans have not abandoned their plan of trying to cut the Allies' lines between La Bassée and Bethune, according to information received here today from field headquarters.

Accurate information has reached here to the effect that the Germans have been strongly reinforced to the east of that point. The army of Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria has been strengthened by divisions from the Duke of Wurtemberg's army, north of Ypres, and from General von Bulow's army, lying near the Argonne.

The principal concentration of these fresh troops lies in a semi-circle described by the towns of Vendin, Wavrin, Viol and Don.

RAILROADS WIN SECOND VICTORY

Interstate Commerce Commission Allows Transcontinental R. R.'s to Reduce Rates on Through Hauls.

(Special to The Herald)
Washington, Feb. 11.—Because of competition through the Panama Canal, the Transcontinental Railroads were permitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to charge lower rates from Eastern points to Pacific coast terminal points than to intermediate points.
With specific cases, the decision permits a reduction in long haul rates.
The decision is in what was known as the International Mountain Rate Case and is regarded as second in importance only to the late decision on their five per cent case. The decision is the second victory won by railroads in their appeal for relief from financial distress.

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, Feb. 11—The first call for the relief of the unemployed came today when employers went out calling for 210 workmen to go to work at once in the State Forestry Department. This call was the result of Governor Walsh signing the bill giving to State Forester Rane's department the sum of $50,000 to administer in favor of those out of work. The workmen are to report in each of about 12 cities and towns outside of the metropolitan district, though they may be drawn from places surrounding those sections in which they are to work. By Monday morning the number will be increased to about 500. All these men think they are to be paid by the state, are to work on private property, most of them to cut wood, and the state will be paid from $1 to $1.50 per cord for what they cut. The money thus received will go back to the state and perhaps may be used to further extend the relief work for the unemployed.

Boston, Feb. 11—The members of the Evangelical Alliance go to Philadelphia on February 22 in order to extend an invitation to Billy Sunday to hold revival services in this city. The date for the revival services will not be settled until after the conference with Mr. Sunday has taken place and it is learned under what terms he will come to the city. The party is to charter a special train for the trip and there will likely be several hundred making the trip. The committee having charge of the arrangements and the plans for the revival include over 100 ministers and several hundred laymen.

Boston, Feb. 11—It is reported in the House corridors that Representative Richard Knowles of New Bedford will contest with Senator Andrew J. Doyle of New Bedford for the Republican nomination in the senate, as the result of the fight over the bill to authorize Mayor Hathaway to remove the New Bedford licensing board. Senator Doyle championed the bill and was able to put it through the senate, but it was defeated in the House. The followers of ex-Mayor Ashley are quoted as saying that they are ready to back Knowles to the limit.

Boston, Feb. 11—Charles F. V. Archer's bill for public convenience stations in the state house has aroused the legislators, since it has brought out the fact that Sergeant-at-Arms Patrick has been obliged to lock up the present rooms for weeks at a time because somebody stole the plumbing. The Archer bill would provide for custodians, pay lavatories, etc.

Boston, Feb. 11—The bills favored by Representatives Foley and Mahon for greater latitude in extending production in cases of drunkenness do not seem to meet with favor. It appears that the legislative legislation of the last few years has about reached the verge of the perilous, and it is thus the pessimism among the other day, their opponents say.

BIG JUBILEE WEEK AT THE GAIETY

entertainment. The company is headed by that famous Irish comedian Pat White, supported by a cast of able artists. Among them are Bert Jones, Tom O'Neill, James Melaney, Marjorie Pugh, Miss Anna Grant, Red Feather, the Indian Prima Donna, and Miss Lanier De Wolfe. Pat White has written for him, as "Casey," Pat has given the stage a new character in Irish comedy that is always laughable, without offending. In the burlesque, he attends the carnival of all nations, and is always in trouble. The management of the Big Jubilee has made in lavish outlay for scenery, electric effects and for costumes. A series of living art studies are given, which are acted by the chorus. Every detail has been paid special attention as to scenery and effects in mounting these pictures.

A SAD SURPRISE

The untimely death of Representative William H. Moran of Portsmouth has caused sincere grief in the House. Those who laughed at his witty speech on the Manchester redistricting bill Tuesday afternoon could hardly believe the news that he had been called upon so suddenly to answer the final summons. "Bibi" Moran's friends among the members of the legislature were limited only to a circle of his acquaintance and he was widely popular in his home city, which he had served efficiently as city clerk and city messenger, as well as in the legislature. Concord Monitor.

WILL FILED

The will of ex-Governor David H. Goodell of Antrim filed in Nashua divides his estate among his widow and his two sons. In the absence of any public bequests, he expresses the wish that his sons be liberal in their contributions to the Baptist church of Antrim. The will indicates his desire for his sons to continue the cutlery works in Antrim.

WHEN HEADACHY TAKE CASCARETS FOR THE BOWELS

To-night! Clean your bowels and end headaches, colds, sour stomach.

Get a ten cent box now.

You're bilious! You have a throbbing sensation in your head, a bad taste in your mouth, your eyes burn, your skin is yellow, with dark rings under your eyes; your lips are parched. No wonder you feel ugly, mean and ill tempered. Your system is full of bile not properly passed off and what you need is a cleaning up inside. Don't continue being a bilious nuisance to yourself and those who love you, and don't resort to harsh physics that irritate and injure. Remember that most disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels are cured by morning with gentle, thorough Cascarets—they work while you sleep. A ten cent box from your druggist will keep your liver and bowels clean; stomach sweet, and your head clear for months. Children love to take Cascarets because they taste good and never gripe or sicken.

Nothing Can Keep Fresh After It's Cut Up

Real tobacco flavor depends upon the leaf being preserved in its natural state, possible only by pressing the leaves into plug form and keeping it in by covering it with a natural leaf wrapper. The natural flavor and strength of tobacco escapes when cut or granulated.

Take a Plug of Sickle that is even thoroughly dried out so that when you whittle it off it crumbles into dust, but it will burn and smoke smooth and cool as it has all of its original tobacco flavor preserved, unevaporated in Plug Form.

Whittling a pipeful is little trouble, amply repaid in both quality and quantity. Try this experiment and judge for yourself.

Portsmouth, N. H., Thursday, February 11, 1915.

Get Together.

According to reports, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Mother Jones, the champion of the miners, both learned something from their recent interview in New York. "Mother" Jones, as she is familiarly known, is a woman of more than 80 years and has long been active in championing the cause of the miners in the Colorado coal fields and other places. She has regarded the Rockefellers as nothing less than horned devils, and their opinion of her and her fellow agitators can readily be imagined.

The Rockefellers are large owners in the Colorado coal mines, where for a long time there have been conditions closely resembling civil war, the conditions becoming such that Federal troops had to be sent in to preserve order and protect life and property. During all this trying period Mother Jones and the miners considered the owners of the mines the sum of all evil, while the owners regarded the miners as little better than bandits bent upon the determination to rule or ruin. And the greatest trouble of all was that they had never gotten together.

Mother Jones tried to see John D. Rockefeller, Jr., six months ago to lay before him the miners' side of the case, but the privilege was refused. A few days ago she was admitted to his office in New York and they talked the matter over freely, with the result that they parted with a much better opinion of each other than they had before entertained. The woman admitted to Mr. Rockefeller, and later to others, that she had slandered him, and Mr. Rockefeller acknowledged to her that there were some things on the miners' side of the question which he had not before understood. That interview will go further toward removing the trouble than all the fighting that has been done from the time of the outbreak.

The admissions of Mr. Rockefeller and Mother Jones prove that there has been right and wrong on both sides, and the chances are that the matter will now be cleared up. Mr. Rockefeller, having survived an interview with one of the "enemy," later met a number of reporters, something which he had never done before, and found that they were not such dangerous men as he had taken them to be.

This is good. It leads to a better understanding and is a direct step toward the elimination of troubles that have existed together too long. And it teaches the lesson that where there is trouble the thing for the leaders to do is to get together. If the European rulers could have done this before resorting to hostilities it would have been better for their countries and for the world.

"Bread is a habit," said a woman in an address before the Clean Food Club of Chicago the other day, and she was right. It is a habit so firmly fixed that it is not to be broken by a flurry in the price of wheat, though the speaker sensibly reminded her hearers that fairly good substitutes for wheat bread are to be found in corn, rye, potatoes and brown bread. The rise in the prices of flour and bread are annoying, but the people of this country are not going hungry yet awhile.

The suffrage amendment has passed the New York Assembly and the people next fall will decide whether the women of the state shall have the ballot or not. The suffragists and their supporters are in high feather now and will wage a lively campaign for the amendment of the constitution. And it is a campaign that will be watched with great interest in all parts of the country.

Apparently numerous elections at which United States senators were chosen last fall are to be investigated by Federal authorities, and it is to be hoped the investigations will be finished before the officials complete their terms. But what a commentary is all this on the intelligence and integrity of the American electorate!

The president's veto of the immigration bill containing a literacy test is sustained. The margin was small, but the bill goes by the board. The literacy test was a question on which good men honestly differed, and it will be the part of good taste for its supporters to accept the outcome gracefully.

The suffragists will not like Mother Jones if she goes about the country shouting, as she did in New York the other day, "Rats! Women have had the vote since the Lord knows when in Colorado, and it's the worst governed state in the Union."

International league baseball players have been notified that their salaries will not be as high this year as they were last. But they can stand something of a cut and then be drawing better pay than the great majority of workers.

In a little less than two weeks President Wilson will touch the button and the great Panama-Pacific exposition will be opened. It is to be hoped it may run its course without earthquake accompaniment.

The moon will not be full this month, something which cannot be said of many men who mounted the water wagon with much eclat less than two months ago.

John D. Rockefeller as He Looks Today, Snapped While on Stand.

Copyright, 1915, by American Press Association.

This is the John D. Rockefeller of today. The picture was snapped as the retired Standard Oil magnate was on the stand before the United States commission on industrial relations in New York city. The commission was inquiring into the Rockefeller foundation and other big money funds started for the public good. The commission wanted to know if the immense funds back of these foundations were all used for the welfare of mankind or if they were partly used to foster the interests of corporations—the founders were interested in directly or indirectly. Mr. Rockefeller is seventy-five years old. He made a keen and interesting witness.

It was decreed to hold Lincoln-Washington exercises on Wednesday evening, February 24.

DON'T BE FOOLED WITH SUBSTITUTES

When you ask for an article you saw advertised in this newspaper, insist on getting what you ask for. If the dealer offers something "just as good" you have a right to view him with suspicion. The advertised article has behind it an entire name. It is backed by a reputable maker. Its pedigree is assured. The substitute has only the dealer's word to recommend it and selling it means more profit to him. Offering things "just as good" is a practice not tolerated by reputable dealers.

ARGENTINE NAVY CREW GUESTS OF U. S. NAVY

900 Officers and Men for New Battleship Mareno Are Quartered on U. S. Ships.

Philadelphia, Feb. 10.—Through the courtesy of the United States government, the 900 men and officers of the Argentine navy who are to man the new battleship Mareno, nearing completion at a shipyard on the Delaware river, today took up quarters on the old battleships Massachusetts and Indiana at the Philadelphia navy yard. The Argentine crew arrived here on two transports from South America on January 27 and have been living on the ships ever since.

The officers and sailors were transferred because the transports were needed for other service. The South Americans while at the navy yard will be given an opportunity to inspect the many ships at the naval station and it is expected there will be some entertaining of the Argentine crew by the officers and men of the yard.

LORENA ATWOOD ON THE CARE OF THE COMPLEXION.

Lorena Atwood, the champion of George M. Cohan's play, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which is the attraction at the Portsmouth Theatre this evening, has a deal of common sense and knows her domestic economy, and she also knows a great deal about the care of the complexion.

Most women know that rough winds are destructive to beauty, and according to Miss Atwood, they should wear a veil if they are to have good skins. "Every season of the year has its disadvantages to good complexions," says Miss Atwood, "and the utmost care must be observed to keep the skin of the face free from climatic influences."

"It behooves a woman with good complexion to take good care of it just as she does her teeth. A good complexion will make an ordinarily homely woman look attractive, so why not take the best care of the skin? It is a good rule to observe that when in doubt wear a veil. No woman's skin is apt to go wrong if she is careful in observing this precaution.

"There never lived a perfectly healthy woman with a bad skin. The woman who eats properly will always have a proper skin, is an axiom of long standing. If a woman who seeks a ruddy face, a blush with natural bloom, and pays attention to the vegetables, sauces, entrees and too those things that are too heavy and too richly spiced, she can go through the courses of a dinner without fear of relinquishing her beauty."

"A chicken salad dressed with mayonnaise and eaten in the same meal with boiled onion with cream sauce, will do more towards bringing pimples to the face than any amount of wind or chaf will do. Pickles and milk, eaten indiscriminately together, will certainly ruin the skin."

"As a complexion factor, fresh air can be mentioned; this does not mean cold air, which should be heated before it is taken into the living room. Taking cold depends more upon static air and draughts than upon cold air, and the worst colds are those caught when one is tired and goes out into the air feeling fagged."

"Let there be free ventilation in the room but the room should remain warm. Then the air is good, the complexion is good, other things being equal."

"If one is afflicted with delicate skin it should be treated before going out. Take a little cold cream about the size of a pea and rub it in well, using the rotary motion in rubbing it in, rubbing gently until the entire face is covered. Then wear a veil, the kind depending upon taste and eyesight, and wear a veil as thin as possible so as not to interfere with the enjoyment of the air."

THE REVIVAL MEETING.

The Revival Meeting at the Methodist church last night was well attended.

CURRENT OPINION

President Should Have More Power to Regulate Expenditures

The president cannot effect economy by arbitrary acts because at present he has no way to get at the records. More power should be vested in the president to keep his eye upon the expenditure of money in the various departments.

We have acted like children. We have had so much money available through taxation that we have not been obliged to consult the revenue side of the ledger. Now we are coming to the point where we must pursue the policy that all other governments have found absolutely necessary in order to keep out of bankruptcy.

These three things, then, are instrumentalities that ought to be created: First—Machinery for the reorganization of the executive departments of the government so as to eliminate duplications.

Second—A bureau directly responsible to the president to report his statement of economy and efficiency to each department.

Third—A plan for bringing the executive and legislative departments together and the preparation of an annual budget upon which Congress can intelligently act.—By Professor William H. Taft of Yale, Former President of the United States.

WILL WE GET ANY?

Year after year the relics of the civil war in the gun park at the navy yard are given away by order of a navy department to the Grand Army and other patriotic organizations in all parts of the country. These organizations are willing to pay enormous freight charges on these relics in order to get them for souvenirs and decorative purposes.

We have three parks in this city without a relic of any kind in any of them, when we might have them just for the asking. Why not request a department to give us some of the old shells, cannons, etc. for Goodwin and Haven Parks, before the other cities and towns of the country get all there is at the navy yard.

It is hard to understand why the patriotic bodies of Portsmouth have overlooked this matter so long and shown such little interest. It would be a good move on the part of the city government to take a hand in the matter if the veterans and other organizations do not care to do it.

Let us have a few of these relics in the parks while we have the opportunity to secure them.

BATTLE OF SAHIL BY AN EYE WITNESS

Operations Against Turks Described By Member of the British Indian Forces.

London, Feb. 10—Operations elsewhere involving larger masses of troops have somewhat overshadowed the British conquest of Mesopotamia which is proceeding steadily. The Turks have put up a good resistance but are now breaking down. From the Persian Gulf the British troops from India are advancing inland in this cradle of civilization.

I have just learned some interesting details of the earlier stages of this campaign from a letter written by a man with the Indian Expeditionary force. He writes in part:

"We sighted our rendezvous on Nov. 13 after a most uneventful calm, and comfortable voyage, and lay at anchor for two days. We were ten miles from land off the mouth of the Shatt el-Arab, the United Stream of Tigris and Euphrates. It certainly was a most remarkable sight transports of all sorts, carrying troops, stores, camels, mules and artillery—much more livelier than Bombay Harbor had been."

"At dawn on the 15th we passed the bar and sailed up stream past the fort at Tuo, which was captured by the Indian Brigade, that had gone ahead of us several days before. On the morning of the 16th we disembarked at a place called Sanvech."

"At dawn on the 17th we marched out northwards. The whole scenery here is the same; the river is fringed on one side for a mile or so with date groves intersected with little mullins, full of water at high tide. Beyond is the desert with the most wonderful landscape; at times one thinks that the troops ahead are marching through water and date groves, and it is all mirage; they are really on the sand. We marched eight miles across the desert inland to the palm groves. At first we went through river mud, which clogged our boots and made marching very heavy; then came a sudden rain storm which lasted an hour, soaked us to the skin, and left on each foot at every step."

"At 11:30 just as the rain came down the first Turkish shell came over us and the battle of Sahil was commenced. The Turks were about 6,000 strong with twelve guns of various sorts, entrenched in an old fort in a police station and in trenches along the line of the date groves. We attacked in two columns. For two hours it was an artillery duel with our guns, aided by the guns of the gunboat on the river firing over them. Then each brigade attacked. We lay waiting two hours under shrapnel fire from the enemy, and later with the bullets from their firing line, which had passed our attack, coming in swept all around us. I am bound to admit that lying on absolutely open desert without a particle of any sort of shelter, under shrapnel, is very unpleasant. We were simply targets for their guns."

"In spite of that and although we got our share of it, the shrapnel burst got high and we only had four casualties. The doctor of the 7th Rajputs was hit as he advanced. At about 3 the Turks evacuated their position, without waiting for the final charge. We converted the retirement into our new camp. There were some unpleasant sights. The whole place was covered with dead and wounded Turks, Arabs and even Chaldeans; we collected about twenty stretchers and brought in as many of them as we could. The field ambulance people were not at all pleased as they already had more than they could deal with."

"That evening we were on guard over the prisoners—a most weird collection of all sorts of Arabs and Turks. Two wounded Turkish whom we picked up talked broken French; they were all against the war. One of them is the son of a Turkish doctor in Baghdad and the other hailed from Beirut. Just as we started to come to camp a furious dust storm descended from the desert. Our camp for that night and the following four nights was the scene of discomfort. All of our kit was at the bottom of the river. I had only a cardigan jacket for warmth; the only food in 24 hours a sausage and half a loaf of bread. On the fifth day we got some supply rations and made a sort of stew. At night here it is very cold and with a keen wind; six of us slept together under a waterproof sheet in a bunch to keep warm, but even so one was up half the night trying to keep warm."

"We were in camp at this place until the 21st. On two occasions we were on outpost duty in the old fort. The latter occasion was at night and the sniping went on from darkness to dawn with very little sleep for anyone. I got the hospital into cover behind a solid wall but we had several bullets overhead and there was such an incessant noise that there was little sleep. The night with only a cardigan jacket on was intense."

"On the evening of the 21st we embarked on one of the Lynch river steamers and proceeded up stream, as news had come in that the Turks had evacuated Basra and that the Arabs were looting the city. The Turks sank a Hamburg-American boat of 7,000 tons and two lighters across the river and our transport steamers could not pass it; we had to anchor at night near the obstruction and pass it by daylight. At 10 a. m. we arrived at Basra to find the whole place quiet and two gunboats in the river. We landed at the pier of the German Consulate."

"Then followed two of the most weird days imaginable. We got all our kit ashore in small steamers from the Tlkma, except our horses, which were only landed yesterday. The German flag was hoisted down and the staff of the Consulate were in reality prisoners. But at the same time we were allotted to the Consulate and they were our hosts. The Germans fed us most luxuriously; rather quaint to be in dining rooms ornamented with German flags and the Emperor William's disgusting portrait, in company with six Germans who were half hosts and half prisoners."

VOTE FOR ARMY OF 3,000,000

House of Commons Makes Provisions for Vast Army, Voting to Provide Blank Check for Purpose.

London, Feb. 10—After two days of debate during which many matters in connection with the war were discussed, the House of Commons, tonight passed without division the army estimates for 2,000,000 men, exclusive of India and also by a "token" vote provided for the pay of the officers and men. By this vote the government will receive a blank check for this purpose.

Reply to points raised by members of the house, Harold J. Tennant, parliamentary under secretary for war said that in case of a raid on England Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton was in command of a mobile force which was ready to go anywhere at any time.

The under secretary added that the suggestion that the war office consent to the enlistment of "bantam" battalions, was being considered. In the mining districts he said, there were many men under the regulation height who desired to serve in the army and that some of them already were in training.

There was considerable discussion of the question of inoculation against disease, in a reply to which Mr. Tennant declared the sentiment in favor of compulsory inoculation was increasing and that the government was considering adopting it. Lork Kitchener, secretary of war, felt so strongly about the matter, Mr. Tennant said that he was about to issue an order suspending grants of leave to those persons who declined to be inoculated.

QUEER CASE FOR LICENSE BOARD

Theft Charged Against Man Who Got License Last Week.

The members of the state license commission have been confronted with what is perhaps the most peculiar situation offered for their consideration since their appointment to office. It involves the disposition of a second class license granted at the meeting held on Friday to Joseph H. Filteau of Berlin.

Stage receiving his license, Filteau has been arraigned in the Berlin district court, charged with stealing $120 in trading stamps from the Berlin Mills Company store.

Chairman Edmund Sullivan of the commission is a resident of Berlin, and the facts came under his notice immediately.

Filteau recently gave up a position which he had held for some time in the meat department of the big store operated by the Berlin Mills Company, and has since been engaged in fitting up a place for the exercise of his license on Pleasant street, Berlin. It has not been opened yet.

Tuesday morning Filteau was arrested and arraigned before Judge Matthew J. Ryan. He was accused of trying to sell 25 coupon books at $3 apiece, the regular price charged by the company for these books, which are used by employees in the purchase of groceries and various supplies. He waived examination and was bound over to the superior court under $1,000 bonds.

COST OF LEATHER

The Boston Herald, dated Dec. 20, 1914, speaks editorially of the effect of the war on the supply of leather. "The extraordinary demand of American markets for European markets cannot fail to create a great deficiency here."

This means a certain advance in the price of shoes.

We have contracted for large supplies of footwear and shall not advance a single price for some time to come. But a "Buy Now" policy is a safe policy.

ABOUT BOYS' SHOES

As we have stated before, it's hard to get a GOOD shoe at a low price. And, as before stated, we think we've solved this problem. We recommend the "Marston" Shoe to the economically inclined for it gives the money's worth every time. Made of good leather and on rightly shaped lasts, it is a slightly shoe as well as a good wearer. According to size $1.50 and $2.00

MOUNTAIN SIDES STREWN WITH GERMAN DEAD

Desperate Assaults on Russian Positions in the Carpathian Mountains Thrown Back With Great Loss of Life.--Germans Lost in Lorraine.--Another Ship Uses U. S. Flag for Safety.

Petrograd, Feb. 10.—The battles for the slopes of the Carpathians in the passes which command the fertile Hungarian plains are being waged with a desperation that is unprecedented. The mountain sides are strewn with dead and dying. Both sides are being constantly re-enforced and the battle is developing so that it promises to become one of the most decisive of the war.

If the Russians win—and all reports indicate that the advantage is with them—they will be able to retain their holdings in Bukovina and also to attempt an invasion in force of Hungary. If they are forced to retire, it will be a disaster, inasmuch as they will simply fall back on their strongly entrenched positions in Galicia and northern and eastern Bukovina.

At Ransfeld and Seiduk the attacks of the Germans have been repulsed with heavy losses, and in the region of Lupkow pass they have been driven back on their second line. The Russians capturing 69 officers, 7200 men, 18 machine guns and a large quantity of supplies.

Germans Made 22 Assaults
However, it is in the vicinity of Tarkolka pass and on the heights in the region of Kozlomok that the fighting has been most bitter. Beginning Saturday a series of assaults were made by the first line German troops who have re-enforced the Austrians. On Sunday this engagement developed into a general battle, still in progress today.

During Sunday the Germans made 22 violent attacks against the Russian positions commanding the approaches to the heights of Kozlomok. The initial German attacks were irresistible. Their front ranks were mowed down. Finally the Russian positions were abandoned and the troops withdrew until re-enforcements could be brought up. Then by a series of bayonet charges the Russians regained their original positions. Never before in the war has there been hand-to-hand fighting of such ferocity, according to the reports received from the front.

Toward evening, on Sunday, the Germans renewed their offensive, and eventually captured the high positions held by the Russian troops. Once again they were driven out in another series of bayonet charges and the fighting ever since has been in the nature of a give-and-take conflict. The Germans used their massed formations to advance with the result that they suffered enormous losses. The slopes of the mountain were literally covered with the dead 1000 being counted in front of one Russian battalion alone.

Battalion Almost Exterminated
In East Prussia the Germans are concentrating fresh troops for an offensive movement against the Russians, who are invading in force. They have essayed the offensive in the Hord-Johannsburg neighborhood and in the region of Lashleben. At the latter place the Russians almost entirely exterminated one attacking battalion of Germans.

On the left bank of the Vistula after a series of attempts to break through the Germans have abandoned their offensive and are now reported to be quiet. The German losses in the last days of fighting along the Berlin-Vulshirliawka line are declared to be in the tens of thousands.

Paris, Feb. 10.—The Germans attempted to carry the French positions in Lorraine, northeast of Maronville, by a general infantry assault, but were repulsed with heavy losses, according to the reports made public here today. This action is believed to mark the resumption of the active campaign in Lorraine, where the weather conditions are reported to be moderating.

From the Aisne to the Champagne region the French and German artillery duels continue without cessation. The Germans are bringing up additional forces in this region and are prepared to attempt another offensive as soon as the weather will permit. In the north there has been fighting at a number of widely separated points, but without any material change.

Isolated conflicts at half a dozen points on the long battle line from the sea to the Swiss frontier are being fought with the utmost desperation. This is especially so in the Woivre region, the Argonne, Labassee and at Parnes, but according to the reports reaching here today the Germans have been unable to gain any material advantage, although they greatly outnumber the French.

The Germans have been bringing up large quantities of men and supplies to the triangle of the Oise and the Aisne and it is expected they will essay a general offensive in this section soon. In front of the long LaBassee line the Germans have been re-enforced by reserve Bavarian regiments and, in expectation of an attempt to break through, the British defense positions along the canal have been very greatly strengthened.

The Belgian artillery, in the north is reported to have demolished part of a German trench and a supply depot north of Neuport. The Belgian forces, withdrawn for a fortnight to permit their being refitted, are now once holding all of the territory inside of their own frontier not occupied by the Germans, and they are reported to be making slow but steady gains at a number of points.

In general there is little change in the dispositions. The Aisne campaign is halted by the heavy snows, but both sides are in readiness to assume the offensive shortly.

New York, Feb. 10.—Passengers on the Canadian line British steamer Orduna, which arrived here today from England, said that the steamer flew the American flag for nearly 24 hours on Jan. 24 while passing through the Irish sea.

The Stars and Stripes, they said, were hoisted on Sunday, about an hour after the Orduna left Liverpool, and not hauled down until early Monday morning.

Fear Submarine Attack

The Orduna was scheduled to sail from Liverpool on Saturday Jan. 29, but did not depart until 10.30 o'clock the next morning. Passengers heard that the reason for the delay was that a German submarine was hovering in the vicinity. The American flag was raised, they said, shortly after the Orduna cleared the Mersey. The steamer ship touched at Queenstown the same day and was flying the Stars and Stripes when she entered and left the harbor they said.

The explanation which the passengers said they received from some of the Orduna's under-officers was that the American flag had been raised for the purpose of protecting the American citizens among the 240 passengers aboard.

H. T. Strong of this city and James Ford of Lynn, Mass., were two of the passengers who said they would vouch over their names that the American flag was flown by the ship. They said it was not until she had cleared the Irish sea that it was hauled down.

Capt. Thomas M. Taylor, commander of the Orduna, refused to discuss the matter, saying he was under orders from the British admiralty not to talk. The other officers also were silent.

Agent Denies Story
Charles P. Sumner, general agent of the Canadian line in this city, denied today that the Orduna had flown the American flag, except at her foremast, which, he explained, is customary on all ships to indicate the country to which they are bound. Both Ford and Strong, as well as other passengers, insisted, however, that the flag was flying at, indicating the nationality of the vessel.

"At no time was the American flag raised at the stern of the Orduna," said Mr. Sumner. "The American flag was raised to the foremast head upon leaving Liverpool to indicate that the Orduna was sailing for an American port, with American passengers and American mail. The American flag remained at the foremast head until after the Orduna left Queenstown, and all the way across the ocean until she arrived here."

Charms of the Roman Farmer.
Cicero Cressens, a freedman who had much larger crops upon a small field than his neighbors had upon their extensive farms, was greatly envied and accused of withdrawing the produce of the people's fields by witchcraft.

Being brought to trial and fearing that he would be condemned, immediately before the question was put he produced in the forum his laboring distaffs and brought along with him a stout daughter, well fed and clothed, his iron tools of the most excellent construction, large spades, heavy shares and oxen in the best order.

Then he said: "These, Romans, are my charms. Nor can I show you or bring into the forum my night meditations, my waterings and my toils." He was unanimously acquitted.—Pliny.

Quintilian's Bereavement.

No event in literary history is more impressive than the fate of Quintilian. It was in the midst of his elaborate work, composed to form the literary character of a son, his great hope, that he experienced the most terrible affliction in the domestic life of genius—the death of his wife and one child after the other. It was a moral earthquake, with a single survivor amidst the ruins. An awful burst of parental and literary affliction breaks forth in Quintilian's lamentation: "My wealth and my writings, the fruits of a long and painful life, must now be reserved only for strangers. All I possess is for aliens and no longer mine." The husband, the father and the man of genius utter one cry of agony.

The Victim.

A line of ragged little boys was ranged down the center of the school for exercise.

"Toe the line!" commanded the master.

A shuffling indicated obedience. The master inspected the line approvingly until his eye rested on a urchin so far behind the others as to be almost out of sight.

"Price," he shouted, "why don't you toe the line?"

"Plenty, (sir, I am toeing it," lisped the boy, "but I got dat'n boot'n out!"

—New Orleans Times-Picayune.

As to "Sights."

A teacher of English criticized an essay written by a girl pupil in which the girl used the word "eyesight."

"What other kind of sight could there be except 'eyesight'?" asked the teacher.

Rising to the challenge, the pupil replied, "Well, there are foresight and hindsight."—Indianapolis News.

Foolish Suggestion.

"You ought to typewrite your poetry," said the harsh editor.

"Great Scott!" replied Mr. Penwiggie. "If I were expert enough to do that kind of typewriting do you think I'd be putting in my time on poetry?"—Chicago News.

Historic Liberty Bell Wanted At Panama-Pacific Exposition.

San Francisco begged the city officials of Philadelphia to send the historic Liberty bell to the Panama-Pacific exposition. Two telegrams were rapidly received by Mayor Blackwelder of Philadelphia, one from Mayor Ralph of San Francisco and one from Charles C. Moore, president of the exposition, asking that the famous old bell be shipped across the continent. Mayor Blackwelder has been in favor of sending it from the start when the school children of California sent a petition to Philadelphia asking that the bell be sent. President Moore stated in his telegram: "We earnestly request that the bell be brought to this city, escorted by the committee of the exposition I beg to extend our hospitality to the mayor and his joint committee of council who will accompany it, and we would be honored by their acceptance and by their becoming our guests while in the city. Also we will provide a guard during their stay. We would set aside one day during the exposition as Liberty Bell day, and on that day appropriate and impressive recognition of a proper character and of special interest to the younger generation will be held."

CHEAP IMITATION VANILLA

What is commercial vanilla supposed to contain? We bought so-called "Artificial Extract Vanilla," in bottles "Vanilla .75 per cent. Coumarin .15 per cent. Alcohol 1.25 per cent. Syrup 12.5 per cent. Glycerin .15 per cent. Water 73.33 per cent. Please tell me what you think of this.

Vanilla extract should contain the extractive matter from the Vanilla bean. This is usually accomplished by allowing the finely chopped bean to stand in a weak alcoholic solution for a sufficient length of time. To use clear extract is sometimes added a small quantity of sugar, or even glycerine. There is no artificial coloring matter of flavor added.

We do not think highly of the formula you submit, inasmuch as it is an imitation of compound vanilla. It is not true vanilla in any sense, but is a cheap makeshift.

NATURAL COLOR

Is the bright red color so noticeable in ready prepared tomato soup natural? I have tried making my own cream of tomato soup and have also bought it in ten-cent cans. Have you ever analyzed the canned soups, and, if so, what do they contain?

We know of no prepared or canned tomato that is artificially colored. The bright red color is due to natural processes in manufacture. The one thing the soup is cooked under reduced atmospheric pressure at a lower temperature than is possible in the ordinary kitchen. This has a direct bearing upon the color of the finished product. Canned soups are free from all taint of chemical preservatives or artificial colors. They usually consist of suitable stock flavored with the various vegetables.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES

If you consider buckwheat cakes hard to digest? Is there much nutriment in them?
Mrs. D. L. A. says: "I have made a cake of pure buckwheat flour with the addition of baking powder the process of baking takes only a few minutes and the starches in the flour undergo very little change. The cakes so made cannot be said to be as digestible as those made in the old-fashioned way. Buckwheat has a fuel value of about 1,600 calories per pound."

A PASTORAL PLAYHOUSE.

Wonderful Open Air Theater in the Heart of the Alps.

What is probably the most perfect pastoral theater in Europe is situated in the heart of the Alps—at Interlaken, in Switzerland. This unique "playhouse" is open to all the winds that blow, and its roof is formed—in the most favorable circumstances—by the blue canopy of the sky. It is not always thus, however, and it has not infrequently happened that the hue of the canopy has been less lively and that players and spectators alike have experienced the interlude of a heavy downpour which was not in the program.

The open air theater at Interlaken is used for performances of Schiller's great drama, "William Tell," for which it is by nature admirably adapted. The stage is a rising meadow framed on three sides by dense woods of beech and pine, with a "backcloth" of grim, gray rock towering toward the sky beyond. Away to the right stretches a huge semicircle of mountain peaks, 9,000 and 10,000 feet high, and behind the spectator tower the great peaks of the Bernese Oberland—the Jungfrau, Monch and Eiger, with their burden of eternal snows.

Nature in accommodating mood has provided the entrances and exits of this unique theater—passages in the woods through which gallop with thundering hoofs on hard ground the mail clad troopers of the tyrannical governor. The cattle, goats and sheep which appear in the first scene—the return of the flocks and herds from the Alpine pastures—approach down the steep path in the woods on the right and are heard long before they are visible, the tinkling and clanging of their bells mingling harmoniously with the long drawn notes of the huge wooden Alpine horn, seven feet in length, and forming an appropriate overture.—Wide World Magazine.

TWO POINTS OF VIEW.

Who Had the Happier Lot, the Lady or the Laborer?

A Fashionable Woman, coming from the Opera to the cosy nest of a Lincolnshire, passed a group of Laborers at midnight. Machines, like terrible Animals, were burrowing into the Earth. Steam was issuing as if from the mouths of a million Serpents. Rocks flew in every direction. Torchlights flamed. There was the thunder of Labor. The Night Shift was in full swing. And the Woman, glancing from the window at a certain Workman, for an instant thought:

"How I wish I had that gray hair! Labor's strength and Joy of Life! How I envy him his Power, his physical perfection, the wonder of his Manhood, his freedom from the Shackles that bind me. He is his own master, while I am a slave—the slave of a Man I despise!"

At that moment the Laborer paused long enough by the deep Chasm where his Engine roared to glance into the Motor as it sped by him. And he thought:

"Oh, to be like her! To know Leisure and Wealth and Rest! To be free from Drudgery and Toil, to come and go as I pleased! To throw off the chains of Debt and Worry and have the days and nights stretch ahead of me like a field of flowers!"

But in another instant the Motor was gone. The Torchlights flared brighter than ever. And each had forgotten the other.—Charles Hanson Towne, in Judge.

Life in the Open.

Men who ride to hounds learn much more than the technique of a sport. Observation, a quick eye, judgment and a number of other qualities are developed. From the bridge of a battleship I have seen a hunting houndsman pick up torpedoes at night before the lookout man saw them. If you can hear your skin nerves vanish, houndsmen are good for old bones and young. Hot baths and constant shade multiply emotion and increase faith and fidelity. Yet life in the open tends to become for town dwellers an expensive luxury for the few.—A. White's Essays.

The Ball, the Dance.

The word "ball," as applied to a dancing party, came to be used in the first instance from an ancient "ball play" given in church by the dean and choir boys of Naples during the Feast of Fools at Easter. At subsequent dancing parties in Naples the dancers threw a ball at one another to the sound of their own singing. They whirled about in measured time, and the sport consisted in loosening hands in time to catch the ball.

Power of the Albatross.

"You can't edge into my family on that theory, young man. I'm willing to keep on supporting my daughter, but you'll have to pay board."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Curious Oversight.

"What do you think, Madam—shall I deliver my address on 'The Ideal Wife' just as I've written it?"
"Certainly not. You must rewrite it. I can't see that it fits me at all."—Meggendorfer Blatter.

RELIEF SHIPS SAIL FOR BELGIUM

New York, Feb. 10.—Carrying the largest and most costly relief cargo yet sent to the war sufferers, the steamship Great City is due to leave here today for Rotterdam. The cargo of food and supplies is valued at $330,000, weighs 9,000 tons, and represents the contributions of more than 50,000 persons in every state in the Union and in the American colonies.

The shipment includes 5500 tons of flour, 200,000 pounds of coffee, 400,000 pounds of rice, 200,000 pounds of beans, 400,000 pounds of peas and 110,000 pounds of condensed milk. The last mentioned are sent especially for the 30,000 Belgian babies born since the war began. With the departure of this last load of food, the total amount of relief sent by New York since the war began rose to $1,500,000.

According to the weekly shipping report of the Commission for Relief in Belgium, the commission has to date arranged for a total tonnage of 250,421 tons of food. The detailed report shows that there has been unloaded at Rotterdam 55,180 tons of food from United States ports, transported by sixteen different ships; that there are six steamships in transit to Rotterdam carrying 40,150 tons of food; that the commission has three steamships representing a tonnage of 21,900 tons now loading in various ports of the United States; that the commission has eleven vessels in transit to American ports to load 64,300 tons of cargo, seven of which will carry wheat, only, and that the commission has eleven ships representing a tonnage of 68,640 tons on charter for future loading.

Oregon Ship to Clear Tomorrow
Among the steamships loading at American ports is the South Point at Philadelphia, which will carry a cargo valued at $500,000 contributed by the millers of the United States. This vessel is expected to clear tomorrow. The Crane, the Oregon state ship, which left Portland, Oregon, last week and stopped at San Francisco to complete her total general cargo of 6500 tons, has finished loading and has started for Rotterdam via the Panama Canal.

News was received yesterday that the New York state ship, the Harpur, which was not expected to arrive here before March 1, will arrive on or about Feb. 21. The Harpur, on leaving Rotterdam called at Port Talbot, England, and left there Feb. 5.

NEW FOOT AND MOUTH OUTBREAK CONFINED TO A NARROW CHANNEL.
Only Animals Intended for Immediate Slaughter are Affected and the Disease Has Not Spread Through the Farm Stock.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 10.—The discovery of foot and mouth infection in the stockyards of nine cities—Chicago, Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, Louisville, Buffalo, Cincinnati, Columbus, Jersey City, and Baltimore—which has resulted in the closing of these stockyards until they have been thoroughly disinfected is regarded by the federal authorities as undoubtedly a setback in their campaign to eradicate the plague but is considered to be by no means as serious a matter as it was at first. The government also holds that the disease should not be paid for but may be condemned under the federal meat inspection law like any other diseased stock. Purchasers of cattle for slaughter in territory where there is reason to suspect the existence of the disease, purchase at their own risk, and there is no reason why the government should insure them against the possibility of loss. For the government to do this would be in fact to put a premium upon the reckless buying of suspected animals and make the task of ultimately eradicating the disease much harder. Inspectors have also been warned against the possibility that stock ostensibly intended for immediate slaughter might be diverted for sale as feeders and stockers, and they have been instructed to see that all such stock is slaughtered without delay.

SUCCESS OF FAVERSHAM AT MAJESTIC, BOSTON.
Mr. William Faversham, in the great Paris and New York success, "The Hawk" swooped down on Boston with the force of a Zeppelin and won the most marked success of his career. After two years of prosperity in Paris and New York, Boston is making a new record of large attendance for Mr. Faversham.

The critics were unstinted in their praise. Philip Hale in the Herald wrote: "An impersonation romantically real by a well-graced actor. A brilliant performance." C. S. Howard in the Globe said that "never has this excellent actor shown more gratifying evidence of his art. It was a performance of memorable merit."

E. H. Corsey in the Post said that "the Hawk" is well worth remembering, and witnessing for it is interesting and admirably presented."

H. T. Parker of the Transcript in speaking of the play said: "It interested the mind and impressed the imagination."

The enthusiastic approval of the public has been voiced at the box office. As the engagement is limited to four weeks of which only three more remain do not delay in securing seats. Matinees are Wednesday and Saturday.

the disease had broken out in stock lots on the farms. All the cattle affected were destined for immediate slaughter at various points. No stock or feeders were included among them. The infection therefore has been laid over a trail that runs in straight, easily-traced lines from city to city. The stamping out of it is principally a matter of disinfecting all areas used in these shipments and all yards through which have passed. On the other hand when the disease first broke out last fall it was spread over the country by a large number of shipments of stockers and feeders which were distributed more or less broadcast to the farms in many states. To trace each one of the animals in these shipments to its ultimate destination was a task of much greater magnitude than the authorities now face.

The new outbreak, however, in the opinion of the federal authorities emphasizes the necessity of adhering for some time longer to the quarantine regulations that prohibit the shipment of any stock from the quarantined area for any purpose except immediate slaughter, and also prohibit its shipment at all to points in free area. If feeders and stockers were to be sent out from the quarantined area, there would always be the danger of the disease spreading once more among the farms, and the country being thrown back in the condition that it was in October.

The government also holds that the disease should not be paid for but may be condemned under the federal meat inspection law like any other diseased stock. Purchasers of cattle for slaughter in territory where there is reason to suspect the existence of the disease, purchase at their own risk, and there is no reason why the government should insure them against the possibility of loss. For the government to do this would be in fact to put a premium upon the reckless buying of suspected animals and make the task of ultimately eradicating the disease much harder. BOSTON OPERA HOUSE.

The announcement from the Opera House of the repitition of "The Merry Wives of Windsor" there, during the forthcoming week has been received with interest and gratification.

"The Merry Wives of Windsor" had not been seen in Boston since 1905.

When the Henry Jovett Play brought it to performance some three weeks since, New interest was awakened in its place by this revival, and the high quality of the comedy began to renew their appeal. The play is the only one from Shakespeare's hands written about contemporary Elizabethan folk and their manners and life, and possesses therefore, a unique interest.

As for the present production of the play, the unanimous praise of the Boston press is a guarantee of its excellence. Henry Crocker is the Falstaff. The roles of the merry wives are played by Miss Compton and Miss Whitaker, who, to quote the Transcript, "are really and truly 'Merry Wives'."

The other roles are in the capable hands of the other members of the company; notable fun-makers are Max Montrose as Doctor Caius, and Ernest Cove as the Welsh parson, Leonard Mudge's impersonation of Master Slender is faultless.

The production of "The Merry Wives" will be followed, in the week of February 22 by "The Taming of the Shrew."

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Concord, Feb. 10.—Matters of interest to the people of Manchester were again prominent in the proceedings of the senate today.

The committee on judiciary reported favorably House Bill No. 155, which recommends the abolishment of the common council of the city of Manchester.

The bill relating to the redistricting of the ward lines of Manchester, which was passed in the house yesterday, made its appearance in the senate this morning and was referred to the committee on judiciary.

Senator Wagner's bill, relating to music on Sundays, received a favorable report, with the recommendation that it ought to pass.

The senate concurred in the action of the house whereby the widow of the late Capt. James H. Caine of ward 3, Manchester, will receive the salary that would have been paid him as a member of the legislature had he lived.

The committee on judiciary reported favorably on Senator Varney's bill relating to municipal finance and accounts.

On motion of Senator Barker of Nashua, the action of the senate, whereby a bill relating to an amendment to the charter of the Granite State Fire Insurance company was passed, was reconsidered and the bill placed back on its second reading, for purposes of amendment.

The rules of the senate were suspended on motion of Senator Kinney of Claremont and the bill, giving the town of Claremont authority, should the voters of the town at the annual meeting to be held in March so vote, to establish a police commission.

Senator Cain gave notice that a hearing on the railroad mileage bill would take place in the senate chamber immediately after the adjournment of the senate this afternoon and urged all members of the senate to attend the hearing.

The committee on labor of the house this morning introduced a bill which provides for the erection of three or more stories which are used for rooming or boarding houses or public halls or places where gatherings are held.

"THE HIGH COST OF LIVING"

The myriads of admirers of Lew Fields as an actor will welcome the opportunity of seeing their favorite comedian in a high class comedy character—that of Ludwig Klink in "The High Cost of Living," now playing at the Shubert Theatre; for Mr. Fields has forsaken Musical Comedy and Burlesque and will make his first appearance here in straight high class comedy. Mr. Fields has made two legitimate comedy roles of Ludwig Klink the most emphatic "hit" of his long career on the stage and proved to his admirers who have always thought him capable of playing straight high class comedy, that he does not have to resort to "clowning" and burlesque methods to keep you in a state of laughter in the straight comedy characterization of Ludwig Klink in "The High Cost of Living." The comedy is said to be one of the funniest ever written, and is a plot of fun from start to finish. There is never an interruption of the merriment, and while Mr. Fields is the "piece de resistance" of the night, yet he is not alone, for his three confederates, who are implicated in a little love affair of twenty-five years standing, are equally involved and equally amusing. The parts of these confederates are in the hands of Jack Lackaye, George Hassel and Wilfred Clarke—while Alice Fischer as the wife of "Klink" and the President of the local Purify League keeps the water in which they are all immersed to a super-heated temperature until the final fall of the curtain.

APPEAL TO THE
NAVY YARD MENAsked to Raise $1,000 for a Seaman's Home.

The following appeal in the form of a communication has been sent out to the workmen at the navy yard by the executive committee of the Navy Yard Improvement Association:

To the Navy Yard Workmen:
The present movement on foot for the establishment of a place in Portsmouth for the enlisted men of the navy visiting this station should meet the earnest efforts of every employee of the yard. It should be the endeavor of every one of us to help this work financially to the extent of one dollar each. The officers and men of the station have contributed to this fund the sum of fifteen hundred dollars to date, and we should at least contribute one thousand dollars. The object is to build a home for enlisted men, and the sum necessary is twenty thousand dollars. Over one half of this sum is now available. Let us get to work.

The establishment of this institution will be of benefit to every man in the yard as it will show the department the interest taken here for the men of the service and will be a help when the question of distribution of work among the various yards come up.

Chief Boatswain Hill has consented to manage the home, and his success here with the Men's Reading Room assures us that it will be in proper hands. Mr. Hill has personally contributed to the fund the sum of five hundred dollars and it is up to us to see that five hundred and raise it five hundred.

Our success in other ventures assures our success in this.

Executive Committee.

B. P. O. E., NO. 97.

The funeral of our late brother, Past Exalted Ruler, William Moran, will take place Saturday morning, Feb. 13, at 9 o'clock from the Church of the Immaculate Conception. Brothers are requested to meet at the residence of our late brother at 8.15, to escort the remains to the church.

WILLIAM T. BENTWISTLE,
Exalted Ruler.
